Could you be a mentor?

Why you should become a mentor

- Take on a new challenge that will leave you feeling motivated and inspired in what you do.
- Enhance your own professional development and gain experience in business coaching.
- Fulfil your responsibility to give something back to your community.
- Share your existing skills and experience to help someone achieve something great!

We believe

- We believe in people's ability to achieve their full potential; that self-employment should be an opportunity for everyone; and that with your help, we can make it happen.

What you could be doing

- Coach an individual or group of people with a learning disability and help them develop their idea for a business.
- This might involve business planning, research and idea development, marketing and communications, finance advice and management.
- No previous experience of coaching or working with people with a learning disability is necessary - we will provide specialist support and advice along the way.
